Regulating Aged Care John Braithwaite, Toni Makkai, Valerie A. Braithwaite, 2007-01-01 Regulating Aged Care is a significant achievement and addresses areas of personal caring which do not usually receive attention It is an important book which draws attention to the central problems of providing care for large numbers of vulnerable people it should be required reading on undergraduate and postgraduate courses relating to applied social science health and medical sociology Alison M Ball Sociology This book provides an impressive evidence base for both theory development and reassessment of policy and practitioner responses in the field International Social Security Review They have given us a fascinating case study here rich in detail and masterfully interpreted against the backdrop of evolving regulatory strategy It is rare indeed to find this depth of analysis made accessible laced throughout with humanity compassion and humor Malcolm Sparrow Harvard University US This book offers an intelligent and insightful account of the development of nursing home regulation in three countries England the USA and Australia But more than that it intertwines theory and more than a decade of empirical work to provide a telling and sophisticated explanation of why and how good regulatory intentions often go awry and what can be done to create systems of regulation which really work to produce improvement Kieran Walshe University of Manchester UK This book is a major contribution to regulatory theory from three members of the world class regulatory research group based in Australia It marks a new development in responsive regulatory theory in which a strengths based pyramid complements the regulatory pyramid The authors compare the accomplishments of nursing home regulation in the US the UK and Australia during the last 20 years and in a longer historical perspective They find that gaming and ritualism rather than defiance of regulators are the greatest challenges for improving safety and quality of life for the elderly in care homes Regulating Aged Care shows how good regulation and caring professionalism can transcend ritualism Better regulation is found to be as much about encouragement to expand strengths as incentives to fix problems The book is underpinned by one of the most ambitious sustained qualitative and quantitative data collections in both the regulatory literature and the aged care literature This study provides an impressive evidence base for both theory development and reassessment of policy and practitioner responses in the field The book will find its readership amongst regulatory scholars in political science law socio legal studies sociology economics and public policy Gerontology and health care scholars and professionals will also find much to reflect upon in the book

Global Economic Prospects 2010 World Bank,2010-02-12 The crisis has deeply impacted virtually every economy in the world and although growth has returned much progress in the fight against poverty has been lost More difficult international conditions in the years to come will mean that developing countries will have to place even more emphasis on improving domestic economic conditions to achieve the kind of growth that can durably eradicate poverty Justin Yifu Lin Chief Economist and Senior Vice President The World Bank Global Economic Prospects 2010 Crisis Finance and Growth explores both the short and medium term impacts of the financial crisis on developing countries Although global growth has resumed the recovery is fragile and unless business and consumer demand strengthen the world economy could slow down again Even if as appears likely a double dip recession is avoided the recovery is expected to be slow High unemployment and widespread restructuring will continue to characterize the global economy for the next several years Already the crisis has provoked large scale human suffering Some 64 million more people around the world are expected to be living on less than a 1 25 per day by the end of 2010 and between 30 000 and 50 000 more infants may have died of malnutrition in 2009 in Sub Saharan Africa than would have been the case if the crisis had not occurred Over the medium term economic growth is expected to recover But increased risk aversion a necessary and desirable tightening of financial regulations in high income countries and measures to reduce the exposure of developing economies to external shocks are likely to make finance scarcer and more costly than it was during the boom period As a result just as the ample liquidity of the early 2000s prompted an investment boom and an acceleration in developing country potential output higher costs will likely yield a slowing in developing country potential growth rates of between 0 2 and 0 7 percentage points and as much as an 8 percent decline in potential output over the medium term In the longer term however developing countries can more than offset the implications of more expensive international finance by reducing the cost of capital channeled through their domestic financial markets For more information please visit www.worldbank.org/gep2010 To access Prospects for the Global Economy an online companion publication please visit www.worldbank.org/globaloutlook
